GENERAL MARKET REPORT.

New York, April 18, 1914.

GRAIN—WHEAT—The market was again unsettled by uncertainty regarding the May position at Chicago, but the heavy covering movement of Wednesday left the market work approximate the boarish conditions which prevail generally. Prices early were feverish, but selfing increased, and at the close the market was weak at not losses of 5 to 1c. Foreign markets were easy, and no export sales came to light. Liverpool was influenced by expectations of heavy tenders on May contracts and liberal officings from Australia and Russia, as well as reports that Argentine wheat is scading higher than expected. In the local cash market No 2 hard winter wheat was quoted at $1,00%. c 1 f. New York.
